Could be part of wildlife corridor, long term could include wheelchair accessible paths and signage explain how the habitat supports local wildlife. An alternative and a lot easier would be to plant a mixed woodland which would also provide a habitat for a range of wildlife as well as even if only in a small way absorbing carbon dioxide. If willow was planted we could go back to the old days and have Gargunnoch baskets again.	Garden

Some of the trees could be rowan, willow, birch and holly.	Garden

>15 years	25-49	yes	yes	I feel the land should be used for the purposes of the whole community. There is an obvious need for a better path for the people who walk across to the woods. Another path around the boundary at the field would also be for a 'nature ' walk. This could be done like the paths at Flanders moss to allow for the marsh like land under foot. A planed mix of natural planting and maybe a pond would attract more wildlife. The paths would cater for wheelchairs and those less steady on there feet. The area should be for the benefit of the whole community. Solar powered lighting would mean that the area could be used at night. And could be self sufficient. A small playground would cater for children at this side of the village. This is a naturally damp area of land and should be treated as so. And should be enhanced for the benefit of all.	Garden

>15 years	over 50	yes	yes	The land at present is home to a wide variety of wildlife and many animals can be seen passing through, whether it be deer, hare or birds. Redwings flock in autumn, buzzards perch on the periphery. Kestrels hover (and how many of these do we see in the village?). Sparrowhawks are regular visitors. We also should be aware that many small birds, finches (green, gold, chaffinch, bull finch), long tailed tits (along with their more common cousins blue, great and coal) yellow hammers, gold crests, wrens are always about. There are also brown owls and the occasional heron - the latter not so common since Dutch elm disease destroyed the heronry on the NE edge of The Glebe in the 1990s. The path through the Glebe has been in common usage since the early 1990s and the school now uses the path as a route for its exercise regime. The problem with drainage is going to be expensive to resolve but it could be used to advantage as it is an ideal wetland habitat and it would be of great benefit to the village to develop this as a wildlife garden. It would be a an amenity for everyone in the village, a cornerstone of the original conditions of transfer, and in particular fits in nicely with the curriculum objectives. In addition, and more importantly, funding is available for such environmental projects, and it is one in which the whole village could participate. Managing it as a wetland/wildlife garden would also have a positive impact on the water table and, thus, ameliorate the flooding experienced in Charles Street and Station Road.	Garden

>15 years	25-49	no	sometimes	Maintain the path cutting through the land as a route into Gargunnock House. But let the land on either side be planted with wild flowers (like the Council do in certain areas in Stirling) to attract butterflies, bees etc. In addition, if funds allow, another path to a simple bench could be cut allowing visitors to that area to rest and admire the view. Also in addition if funds allow, some bird nests on the telegraph pole type things I have seen in the past. Also in addition, if funds allow some bee hives. However they would require looking after, but maybe a local beekeeping organisation would be happy to do this if it encourages the bee numbers to increase. Overall just keeping the wild flower meadow maintained each year - with relevant paths clearly cut into the ground, would be a massive improvement and leave it as a peaceful area for residents to admire.	Garden

<5 years	25-49	no	no	affordable housing	Housing
5-15 years	house	yes	yes	This area should be utilised for Affordable Housing. The alleged burdens associated with the land transfer from the GVDIA are not legally enforceable under the Scottish Land Reform Act 2016. Secondly, Ogilvie Homes; who own the so called "ransom strip" have stated; when approached by the Gargunnoch CC, that they will not prohibit any development of the land; including housing. Thirdly, the alleged statement from SEPA that the land cannot be built on for drainage reasons is a moratorium. Modern housing planning and construction can easily overcome the drainage issues. For the village to keep evolving, additional housing is required. It is the responsibility of the Gargunnoch Trust in conjunction with the Community Council to ensure that the young people of the village can grow up and remain in the village; if they wish, in a home that is affordable to them.	Housing
?	over 50	no	no	We need more houses in the village in order to sustain numbers in the school. Without youngsters in the village the school will go which results in a dying village. <5 years	25-49	no	sometimes	The built of affordable housing for young professionals ideally with a scheme that discourages people acquiring a property portfolio. For example only allowed to sell property with a profit of 5% within first 5 years	Housing
5-15 years	over 50	no	sometimes	Ideal location for construction of a number of affordable houses for a mixed community of young families and retrial age couples/singles. A housing association such as rural Stirling would have the opportunity to produce a development of high performance - ecological and affordable rental homes. This use of the land would sustain the viability of the school as well as providing for the increasing demand produced as the population of +60 years increases. The potential difficulties of building on this type of poorly drained site can be overcome using techniques successfully used elsewhere and this should no be accepted as a reason for not developing this site. >15 years	25-49	no	sometimes	Housing. We are extremely fortunate to have large areas of community and green space. What we don't have however is enough affordable housing. We can build in the artic, desert and oceans but there are those in the village that seem to think the site at the Glebe is unbuildable. This is folly. Yes. It is in the 1:200 SEPA flood risk area (like other nearby areas) but that does not mean a working solution cannot be found. A proper development appraisal should be completed in conjunction with a local housebuilder and Council. This can be done 'open book' and then put to the village for consideration, so that an informed decision can be made. If it is viable, and the wider community happy, the land could be sold to a developer/housebuilder with overage for any enhanced profits. These funds could be ploughed back into the various groups and services for the village.	Housing

>15 years	25-49	no	sometimes	The village does not need more recreational space. We are blessed with lots of great outdoor space. As a parent my children have freedom to play and explore outside in a way that is not so common nowadays. As a dog owner I am spoilt for choice. At the moment we have a spacious and well equipped park, extensive grounds at the school, safe streets to ride bikes, the Beeches, Ladies Walk, waterfall, hills, reservoir, the pot hole. We do not need more recreational space!! What we need is some more houses, where more families can come and join our community. The ageing population and lack of growth at the bottom of the age scale. Our Rainbow, Brownie and Guide groups are so well supported because they attract girls from outwith the village. I see first hand the fall in young population has and is negatively having on the primary school. So in short, this is the only piece of land that could be available for housing. There is no other available land unless David Stirling or Gargunnoch House Trust sell or make available some land. But, you will argue that it isn't suitable because it is at risk of flooding. If that argument had followed through in the past then The Glebe and Charles St wouldn't have been built. Really if we are honest, the flood risk is a convenient excuse one for a few Glebe residents who are older and don't want housing bordering their properties. Sell the land to a developer someone like Ogilvie or Barratt, someone who can access the land and build appropriate housing. Some new houses in the village will benefit the school, shop, church and local groups, everyones house prices as investment boosts and desirability boosts value. We as a village have not seen house prices restore to pre 2008 values, possibly one of the few area in Stirling not to have recovered yet, and you never know, we might even like the people that come and buy these houses. They might be like the majority of Gargunnoch residents - keen to be involved, support and care.	Housing

>15 years	house	yes	yes	The best use by far would be to build Affordable Housing. The so called GVDIA led people in the village to the wrong belief that the land could not be used for this purpose. This was not the case and indeed showed the GVDIA to be acting in there own interests (whoever they actually were). It is hoped that the Gargunnoch Trust will do the right thing and ensure a proper investigation is conduct to ascertain whether the land is suitable for housing. I don't believe for 1 minute that modern building practices could not overcome the drainage issues perpetrated by the GVDIA. An approach to Ogilvie Homes; who I believe own the portion of land between the Glebe area and Charles Street, to discuss why the village badly needs affordable housing should be made. In fact they may be interested in building there in conjunction with Stirling Council.	Housing

There are two but the one they love best is do simple it's just a dirt track with different height bumps on it and they love going round on it. A track for bikes and scooters would be brilliant. Another idea I had although I think it's too small to put a running track around the outside isn't it but if it's big enough then creating A natural looking but usable (thinking Richmond park on smaller scale) open space people can walk, run, cycle around would be great probably too small I'm not sure but the beechwood idea needs very little space for the kids. >15 years	25-49	no	yes	I currently use the land as a 'cut through' to Gargunock House but appreciate that there are other routes. I would be pleased to see the land developed to benefit the community, so long as it is developed in line with the views of residents of Charles Street, Station Road and the Glebe. Access to the land is an obvious issue and so is the quality of the land. Not sure if this is an appropriate site for the much needed affordable housing in the village. 5-15 years	25-49	prefer not to say	yes	First preference would be to leave the land as is but improve walkway through to the ladies walk. It would also be great if we could have some native planting. I am not against housing but I would not like to see any houses or the garages in Charles Street need to be demolished in order for new housing to be built, this was mentioned a few years back. I think it is worth researching with Gargunnock House Trust and new owners at Leckie to see if they would release land for a more substantial housing development. I believe Gargunnock House Trust have released a piece of land for a house to be built on Manse Brae and when Leckie was advertised for sale it did say some of the land was suitable for development. Even a simple half pipe would be wonderful! These are understandably expensive options, however, with so much income due to come in via the wind turbine scheme, we could afford it. There is nothing for teens in the village. This would create a social area for them, while increasing their activity levels. This is important for this age group, who can be particularly sedentary. Access to Gargunnock House should be maintained, and improvement to the access, making it a distinct all weather path, would be beneficial. Please do not simply "pretty up" the area by planting and benches - Gargunnock has enough of these areas. I believe that the best use of the Glebe land would be to develop as wildlife area, while maintaining and improving the path to Gargunnock House. Given the boggy nature perhaps part of it could be turned into a pond for amphibians, dragonflies etc. and a range of damp-tolerant trees planted e.g. willow and alder. The pathway could be raised to prevent it from becoming muddy as happens now. 5-15 years	25-49	yes	yes	I think the best thing would be to tidy it up with proper paths as it is really mucky down there, plenty of bins for rubbish. Apple trees and other trees have been planted down there for the last few years so maybe more fruit trees would be nice. A wild pond maybe, plenty of water to be found I am sure. Fitness area but no dogs allowed in this part of the park.	Garden

5-15 years	25-49	no	sometimes	I would like something imaginative, we have lots of natural interest areas around the village. Maybe part could be kept garden - bees, chickens, goats, interactive garden. The other part could be something for older children and an outdoor exercise area for all ages. I don't disagree that the village would benefit from more housing but this is not the place to put it. Successful developments such as The Glebe, Drummond Place and Millbrae were created when land was released from the church or one of the estates. Why don't we research this properly, if this was possible almost 30 years ago why not now. I am tired listening to some in the village who preach on about the need for affordable/social housing so that when their children grow up they will be able to buy. Be honest, when their children grow up they will be gone to university and then a job in a city and maybe return to Gargunock when ready to settle but at that point they will have a profession and be able to purchase a house. We are still affordable for majority of working couples/families. This is how it should be. I do feel for some who will not be this fortunate but these are not the people banging on about putting affordable housing in this small area, if you believe it get it in the local development plan for the village and speak with land owners. I am a parent with children at the school, to increase numbers we need a larger development of housing to encourage families, lots for young children in village but I do not see very much for older children around the village, I believe there used to be a youth group, what happened?	Recreational
5-15 years	over 50	no	no	There is a need in the village for new houses, smaller homes for younger families so I think it should be used for this as long as there will not be a problem there with flooding and the new properties do not cause any problems for the people who already live in The Glebe and Charles Street i.e. access to the land should not be through either of these	Housing

>15 years	over 50	no	yes	There should probably still be some kind of public access available, but the land should be used for some sort of community project and probably one that most people could benefit from. Given the generally wet nature of the land, I suggest that it would make an ideal location for some kind of community orchard. In addition to the Orchard, it could be used for raised planting beds to educate children about growing and using vegetables. A low cost option, but with far reaching potential. The produce from the land could be open for free use - but would obviously need to be managed in some way.	Garden
5-15 years	house	yes	no	I would like for this land to stay a quiet area for the families who live round about. I would not like for anything to be done to the land to encourage it to be any busier than it is now. I am all in agreement to developing the village but would like everyone involved to realise that the families who live next to this piece of land do not want their peaceful street to be changed. The school also needs a future and additional family homes are required to maintain the levels of pupils to allow the school to remain viable.	Housing
>15 years	over 50	no	sometimes	At a recent rural talk, we found out that the Smith museum hold items from Miss Stirling until such time as Gargunock has a place/museum to hold them. If we had a building to hold these items in the village we could add to it with other items people are currently holding, old copies of village magazines to the Bugle today, history of the school and the village including things like Gala days. 5-15 years	25-49	yes	yes	Something that accommodates its "wetness" would probably work best, such as a pond/wildlife garden. However, we have lots of wildlife areas around us, and also lots of park space. What about an "urban" playground with an all-weather surface. It could have a basketball court, skate park, climbing stuff for the kids to practice their parkour. But could the climbing stuff be made of wood? There could be a row of trees to block the sights and sounds for the houses at the bottom of the Glebe. If there's space then a combination of the pond and the other stuff.	Garden
>15 years	25-49	no	no	Growing up in Gargunnock there was always a lack of recreational facilities for teenagers other than the football park, so I think it would be good to address this. Some low maintenance sports or exercise based installation, like a skateboard park, bouldering wall, or bodyweight exercise gym. Being situated close to trails up to gargunnock house and on up to the gargunnock hill run, I'd think it's a particularly good spot for outdoor gym equipment (bars, rings, etc.), creating a focal point for exercise that would benefit the full age range of the village. 5-15 years	over 50	yes	yes	Please think out the box and don't just think about grabbing this piece of land for housing, when is it time to review the local development plan. When will the school be renewed, I think it is over 40 years old, at that time could the school be relocated here or to the field at the community centre and then the current school area could you used for a larger housing development, more beneficial to the village, school, pub and shop. Please leave this area as is with improved walkways.	Garden
5-15 years	house	yes	yes	Would like to see the land developed as a functional recreational area for the village. Would like to maintain the walkways to Gargunock House and make them permanent and solid walkways to avoid the muddy paths as they are today. Would also be interested in looking at altering the rest of the land area as either an all weather sports pitch (tennis, football ?) or cycle path (for kids in the village to safely learn to cycle) and potentially an area with tables/benches where families or groups could meet and sit (picnics / outside social events) ? 5-15 years	<25	no	no	I think a community garden lot should be provided where villagers can pay to use an allotment. Any vegetables or fruit that folks have grown but won't use all of could be placed in the shop and picked up free of charge or bags could be made for the elderly in the village to be able to make a pot of soup with or add to their meal for extra nutrition. Or i think it should be made just a nice area to walk through with lovely planted areas and a marked footpath with a couple of areas for seats.	Garden

>15 years	25-49	no	yes	It would be lovely to have a community garden with plenty of good paths for walking on, wide enough to let young ones go around safely on their bikes independently and with hand rails that allow older ones in the village to walk, it is not easy for elderly in the village to safely walk as some roads don't have pavements and others quite hilly, this is such a shame as many of them enjoyed all the beautiful country walks we have around the village in years past. Maybe it could have a car park which would help congestion on Charles Street and allow older ones to drive there but get out have some exercise and sit at a nice table and watch the day go by.	Garden
<5 years	house	no	no	I would favour using it as an area for physical activity. My top choice would be a cycle track (e.g like beechwood park near Stirling high school or Aberfoyle or Wallace high). Also, the area needs drained so there could be a pond to the south east of the area to drain the surplus water and to create an environment for wild life. There should be good paths across the area suitable for all weather walking and access to the Gargunnoch Estate. The remainder of the are could be used for a community orchard.	Housing

>15 years	25-49	no	sometimes	A few ideas :- A community orchard. A recreational area for skateboarding/bikes/toddler bike area including a sheltered lit area for young people to meet out of the elements but away from adult supervision. Some tennis courts. Not sure if you are going to or have gathered younger people's ideas but my primary age child thinks allotments would be a good use of the land. However, ideally I think some rural, affordable housing would be the best use of the land as long as it is in keeping with the number of houses already in Charles Street and a lot of traffic calming was incorporated.
